The Own Your Awkward Guy

Own Your Awkward

Bringing confidence, connection, and authentic leadership to your campus

The Message

Every student on your campus is hiding something, a quirk, an insecurity, a part of themselves they think does not belong. Andy Vargo helps them stop hiding and start owning it. Through humor, storytelling, and hands on interaction, Andy shows students that the moments they feel most awkward about are actually the foundation for confidence, connection, and real leadership.

Ways We Can Bring It to Your Campus

Keynotes: High energy and humorous, perfect for large audiences and campus wide events

Workshops: Hands on and discussion based with tangible takeaways including Andy's signature beach ball exercise, action cards, and guided reflection tools

Custom Programs: Tailored experiences for specific groups, goals, formats, and timing variations

Everything flexes to fit your audience, format, and time.

Students Will Learn How To

- Build confidence in social and professional situations
- Stop comparing themselves to others and embrace their individuality
- Communicate authentically instead of pretending to fit in

Perfect For

- Student Activities & Campus Programming
- Student Leadership Events & Conferences
- First Year Experience & Orientation
- Residence Life Programs
