

Own Your AWKWARD

Own Your Awkward: Half-Day Team Encounter

Get your team out of the office for a half-day experience that helps them communicate more honestly, contribute more fully, and navigate change together.

Your team is dealing with something.

A new direction. A change in leadership. Growth. New priorities. A communication problem that's been hanging around longer than anyone wants to admit.

Maybe people are working hard but not always working together.

Maybe the team has good people who aren't bringing their best to the room.

Maybe there's a real organizational challenge sitting in front of everyone, and the team needs time to step away from the day-to-day and actually work on it.

That's what we work on.

You get your team out of the office for a half-day experience built around your people, your situation, and the real challenge in front of you.

Through practical exercises, honest conversation, humour, and a little bit of beach-ball-based self-discovery, your team gets to know themselves better, understand each other better, and learn how to use those differences to communicate and navigate change more effectively.

Then you bring the learning back to the thing that matters most.

Own Your Awkward: Half-Day Team Encounter

Who this is for:

This is for 30 to 60 person companies in Pierce County who want to get their team out of the office and work on something that actually matters.

Best fit tends to be teams dealing with communication challenges, organizational change, new priorities, growth, leadership transitions, or a next chapter that requires people to work differently together.

You don't need to have everything figured out before you book.
You just need a real team and something worth working on.

What happens the half day:

We work together to help your team:

- Understand their own strengths, traits, and ways of contributing
- See the value other people bring to the team
- Use those differences to communicate more strongly
- Navigate change with more clarity and less reaction
- Apply what they've learned to a real organizational goal or current issue

This isn't a generic team-building day.

It's a chance to understand your people better, work through what your team is actually facing, and leave with something practical you can use when you get back to the office.

The finish line:

Your team leaves with a clearer understanding of what each person brings to the room.

A shared way to talk about communication, change, and the challenge you're facing.

And a practical plan connected to a real organizational goal or current issue.
The work doesn't end when the workshop does.

Your team also receives a Mastering Change Team Toolkit, including a copy of Own Your Awkward Life Changes and a practical action worksheet for each participant.

What you also get:

Leadership Alignment Session

A private session before the workshop to get clear on what's happening inside the business, what you want your team to walk away with, and how to shape the experience around your actual situation.

Mastering Change Team Toolkit

A copy of Own Your Awkward Life Changes and a practical action worksheet for each participant to use during and after the workshop.

Fast-Action Team Worksheet

Your team receives either Say What Needs to Be Said or Activate Your Voice immediately after booking, based on the focus of your workshop.
So the conversation can start before the workshop ever does.
